

Prof. Dr. G. U. Ahsan has been appointed as the Dean of NSU School of Health & Life Sciences and Member of technical advisory committee of WHO South East Asia region

Prof. Dr. G. U. Ahsan has been appointed as the Dean, School of Health & Life Sciences at North South University. In addition, he has also been appointed as the member of technical advisory committee of WHO South East Asia region. He has been working as Chairman, Department of Public Health, North South University and is invited as temporary advisor to the Regional Director to attend the Inter-country meeting for strengthening regional framework and developing research action plan to be held from 14 – 16 October, 2014 in New Delhi, India. He is one of the internationally reputed epidemiologist and specialist in public health sector of this region.